Local impact. National change.

FUSE's place-based approach breaks down barriers between governments and the people they serve, helping to unite and strengthen communities.

Since 2012, FUSE has led over 400 projects in partnership with 58 cities and counties across 26 states. Working locally in communities throughout the country, FUSE is impacting a total population equivalent to more than 1 in 10 Americans.

FUSE endeavors to innovate and accelerate change management across an array of challenges facing today's cities, including affordable housing, economic mobility, public health, climate resilience, public safety, and much more.

Through a proven executive fellowship model, FUSE's dedicated team of 30 staff members hires experienced local leaders and embeds them in government agencies to help deliver more equitable and impactful public services.
